

Product Spotlight: MEDIC®

Ambulance operators work tirelessly to protect and serve their communities. An ambulance service's success is gauged by swift response times and exceeding the needs of the general public, especially the patient they are transporting. It is the quality of service provided and steadfast dedication of the men and women who operate the ambulances that set them apart.

National Interstate embarked on a mission to introduce an innovative risk transfer program tailored to the specialized needs of the ambulance industry. The challenge was creating a program that could uphold the code and principles of those it aimed to serve. The intention was to not only meet the coverage needs of our members but to emulate the commitment and service standards that have been the cornerstone of their success.

When ambulance operators needed us, we responded to the call with MEDIC.
